

Course title	Introduction to Common Law I
Teacher(s)	CARPENTER Keith			開講区分	単位数
				1st semester	2.0
Numbering Code		Day・Period	Wed3	Timetable Slot Code	1J284

Lesson topic

Legal systems of most countries in the world are either based on common law or civil law. The English legal system is the source of all common law systems and provides a sound basis for understanding how common law systems work and how they differ from civil law systems. The course will have two parts (part 1 first term, part 2 second term). This part 1 covers substantive law.

Lesson target

By the end of the course, students will have:

1. an overview of the English legal system, focusing on aspects that are interesting and differ from civil law systems
2. an understanding of English legal terms and concepts
3. developed their ability generally to communicate in English in relation to legal matters (common law, civil law and other legal systems)

Syllabus and plan

The course (part 1, first term) will consist of 14 lectures. The following gives an indication of the topics to be covered by the lectures:

- 1-2 Introduction
- 2-6 Sources of law (legislation)
- 6-8 Sources of law (case law)
- 7 Review and progress check
- 8-10 Case study
- 10-11 Sources of law (case law)
- 11-13 Sources of law (others)
- 13 Review and progress check
- 13-14 The judiciary

Evaluation method

The students will be evaluated as follows:

Class attendance and participation 70%

Tests 30%

[Global Masters Program ("GMAP") students will in addition be evaluated on a written report. Details of evaluation method and requirements will be explained to GMAP students separately]

Evaluation baseline

70% of the evaluation will be determined by the attendance record and positive attitude in participating in discussions in the class room (focusing on the level of exchange of opinions on the discussion topic) Students will not receive a lower grading for making errors in English.
30% of the evaluation will be determined by 2 mini-tests conducted during the term to check understanding of key concepts and terminology. The tests will mainly consist of choosing the correct answers.

Notice (include info. on related class)

Participating in this course will help develop appropriate skills for students who are considering studying at a foreign university under an exchange programme.

Exchange students can attend this course.

Review and preparation

Students will be required to do some reading of the hand-out materials in preparation for lectures and to review after lectures.

Office hour · Contact information

Contact can be made by email to: keith@people.kobe-u.ac.jp
There will also be time to ask questions at the beginning or end of classes.

Message for student

The lectures will be interactive and students will be encouraged to express their opinions and ideas in English. However students should not feel afraid to attend because they are unable to speak English fluently. The lecturer aims to make the lectures understandable by students with a range of English fluency. Discussion times will usually begin by students discussing in pairs, so that they have time to practise speaking before giving their views to the whole class.

Students will be able to speak and ask questions not only about the specific content of the lecture but also on law related subjects generally. Students will also have opportunities to speak with many of the other attending students. There are likely to be both Japanese and non-Japanese students attending.

Improvements in Teaching

Text

It will not be necessary for students to purchase any text book. Information about relevant text books will be given for those students who are interested in further reading. Handouts covering Powerpoint slides, lecture notes and other materials will be distributed.

Reference Material

Please see above

Classroom Language

The lectures will be conducted in English

Keywords

common law, case law, English law
Exchange student(Special auditing student)