Lesson topic

This course will be at an introductory level for those wishing to develop the four (speaking, listening, writing and reading) English language skills in relation to legal subjects. The language covered will include both academic language (used by those studying law) and professional language (used by lawyers).

Lesson target

By the end of the course, students will have improved their ability to:

1. listen to and understand both native and non-native speakers' of English talking about legal matters in situations such as meetings, discussions and lectures;
2. speak about legal matters in a variety of situations such as negotiating a settlement, summarising a legal case;
3. read and understand legal texts such as contracts, statutes and case reports, law journal articles, law text books and legal correspondence;
4. write case notes and letters/emails of advice.

Syllabus and plan

The lectures are expected to be conducted with students attending in the classroom.

There will be a total of 15 lectures. The following gives an indication of the topics to be covered by the lectures. Numbers of lectures for each topic and the order might be changed.

Lectures 1-3: Introduction & studying law and law subjects

Lectures 3-7: Contract law

Lectures 7-10: Contract dispute case study

Lectures 11-13: Tort law (civil wrongs)

Lectures 13-15: Company law

The course instructor is a native English qualified lawyer and has over 20 years' professional experience of working in an international legal environment.

Evaluation method

Students will be assessed as follows:

50%: level of active performance during lectures

30%: written homework

20%: final exam

Evaluation baseline

50%: by the level of their active participation and performance during lectures: this will include the extent of attendance of classes and will be especially focused on understanding (listening) and expression (speaking) ability during class activities.

30%: by written homework: there will be three written assignments set during the term, each carrying 10% and covering grammar, technical vocabulary, structure and format.

20%: final exam which will cover all the material covered during the semester.

Notice (include info. on related class)

Participating in this course will help develop appropriate skills for students who are considering studying at a foreign university under an exchange programme. It will also be useful for an international internship.

Exchange students can attend this course.

This course is recommended for students who wish to progress to the Advanced Legal English course.

Review and preparation

Students will be required to do some reading of the textbook and preparation for speaking activities in preparation for lectures and to do written and review work as homework after lectures.

Kobe University requires 45 hours of study from students to award one credit, including both in-class instructions as well as study outside classes.

Students are required to prepare for each class and complete the review after each class, depending on the respective class goals.
