

Course title	International Arbitration
Responsible person to enter grades	KAWASHIMA Fujio, Tetsuo KURITA, SAITO Akira, Daniel Allen			開講区分	単位数
				2nd semester	2.0
Numbering Code		Day・Period, etc.	Other(遠隔)	Timetable Slot Code	3J393

Lesson topic

This course is designed to provide those who intend to use international arbitration in the near future with sufficient background, basic theory, and practical structure of international arbitration. The lectures will include presentations on the latest developments in international arbitration by invited guests, such as researchers, practicing lawyers, and persons in charge at arbitration offices, to give the lectures a three-dimensional feel. In addition, time will be set aside for discussion with the guests so that students can actively participate in the class.

Lesson target

The goal of the course is to provide students with a correct understanding of the current theory and reality of international arbitration, and to give them sufficient knowledge to become future users of international arbitration.

Syllabus and plan

Lectures will be held on Saturday afternoons via Zoom.

Lecture 1/2 Origins and Development of International Arbitration (October 14)

Lecture 3/4 Investor-State Arbitration in Practice (October 21)

Lecture 5/6 Current Status of Investor-State Arbitration (November 18)

Lecture 7/8 Current Status of International Arbitration in Singapore (November 25)

Lecture 9/10 Impact of Global Corruption Cases on International Arbitration (December 16)

Lecture 11/12 Practice of International Commercial Arbitration and its Field (December 23)

Lecture 13/14/15 Presentation by participants and summary (January 13)

Evaluation method

Attendance at 12 or more lectures is a prerequisite for receiving credits.

Grades will be determined by active participation in discussions in each lecture and evaluation of the final presentation. The ratio of both is 50% each.

Evaluation baseline

The final grade will be determined based on the achievement objectives of this lecture and in accordance with the above grading system.

Notice (include info. on related class)

No prerequisite knowledge is necessary. It is important to have an interest in international arbitration.

Review and preparation

N/A

Office hour・Contact information

Office hours will be set as appropriate by e-mail.

Contact details will be provided during the course.

Message for student

International arbitration is a rapidly changing field, and it is necessary to constantly update information. The lectures will discuss how to do so, and students are expected to actively conduct research on the web and databases in accordance with their own interests.

Improvements in Teaching

The basic literature will be used to enable students to conduct research outside of class.

Text

Oxford Handbook of International Arbitration (2020)

Reference Material

To be provided during lectures.

Classroom Language

English
Japanese may be used partially if participants agree.

Keywords